Cindy
Any chance I could squeeze into your schedule for 15 minutes this week? I am free tomorrow and up until 10am Thursday and all day Friday after 10am.

thanks for the link. The story is now on the Star's website. The Mayor has finally figured it out: that Ed Ford with a assist from several other councilpersons is the reason(and not his job performance, his stubbornness or his wife)that he has problems with the Council and a lower approval rate with the voters than Geroge W. when he left office. Damn I'm good.

I cannot find Cindy's private email account, but she will surely want to see this so please pass it along.

The link below is to Ch 41's 7 minute interview with Flunk. Among other things he says Cindy was a poor chair of housing and Miller was a big mistake.

I went to his speech today at the U. Church. You will read all about in the Star, but here is my take:

1---I want to start again

2---I understand dirty politics and I am going to now take off the gloves

3---Therefore per # 1 and 2, I will not withdraw my lawsuit against the city.

He called for hiring 4 or 5 senior city staff members, including a New Tools coordinator, A Community engagement director, some sort of new communication director and a couple of more. When asked how he could do this while laying off current city staff he something like sometimes you have to spend money to the do the right things.

All was going well in the speech and Q&A's until a UMKC professor basically asked him that if he was serious about "starting anew" would he get rid of the distractions and controversies. He said NO. He could not let council dictate how to run his office.

Here is the link to the TV interview. See interview screen on right.
